Gibran Khalil Gibran.

To the student

Themes is a series of textbooks designed for students studying English as a first foreign language. This is the third book for the Humanities Section of the Secondary Cycle, according to the new National Curriculum.

The aim of the Workbook is mainly to reinforce and expand upon the writing activities presented in the Student's Book. More specifically, the objective is to provide reinforcement for the skills introduced in the Student's book and give further practice on certain language and literary items in writing, reading, and listening comprehension that may or may not have appeared in the Student's Book. The Workbook provides the students with exercises corresponding to each lesson in the Student's Book. Better results are obtained when both are used together.

The exercises in this Workbook are to be done either in class or at home depending on the teacher's directives. The table of contents also corresponds to the Student's Book.

The authors believe that the Workbook is in no way exhaustive but only suggestive of how students can further their practical application in learning the language.
