Objective : -To build bridges between kindergarten and grade one classes by aligning curricular and instructional practices.

Description : Learners in KG's learn most through songs and activities and when it comes to grade one they have to read a whole text and write a full paragraph. Grade one teachers and students face challenges at the beginning of the year concerning reading and writing. It's obvious that there is a gap existing between KG's classes and grade one. In this workshop we will meet together to:
Clarify the different challenges teachers and students might face.
Identify ways to build bridges between these two classes.
Generate transition plans and activities for both classes.

Objective : Use effective techniques and tools for young learners to communicate through writing

Description : Teaching writing has been a hard mission for a great number of teachers and a difficult task for students as well for many years. It is very important that a person does something for a reason or a purpose. Young learners have the right to know that writing helps them communicate with others in real life. It helps them tell what happened to them, describe whom they met, invite friends to a party, leave a message for mom, etc...It is real life! Writing is not a complex task as some claim but rather a well-developed process that has a purpose and an audience. It also requires special tools and professional techniques, and a well designed plan that manages all the process correctly.
